Fire Doors

There are nine (9) sets of fire doors in the Featheringill-Jacobs Hall. When smoke is detected and/or the alarm is sounded they will all close automatically. Four (4) sets have windows, but the other five sets are opaque. This complicates matters in that, in a few cases, taking the shortest route from a classroom to a stairway/exit would require going through opaque doors without an opportunity to observe in advance the situation on the other side. When approaching an opaque fire door, be aware that someone may be on the other side of the door, open door slowly as not to injure someone on the other side.
